NoWPaS's COMING HOME!!

This year is a special one! The NoWPaS workshop 2012 will repeat its success from the first NoWPaS workshop ever held in 2005, returning to its origins in Trondheim, Norway!

In 2005 a new Nordic network was established for PhD and Post Doctoral students within Salmo salar and Salmo trutta research. Today, NoWPaS is a global network with more than 100 members and seven workshops have been held with great success in Sweden (2006), Finland (2007), Denmark (2008), England (2009), Scotland (2010) and France (2011).

Our objectives are to 1) arrange an annual workshop/conference for exchanging knowledge and ideas in an interdisciplinary forum; 2) to emphasize the opportunity for collaboration through existing and future projects in an international sphere; 3) invite external key researchers in order to establish future collaborative bonds.

Hope to see you all in Trondheim to celebrate the homecoming event and have constructive discussions in a relaxed atmosphere!

Travel info:

People should arrive on Wednesday 21st at Trondheim airport Værnes, located 40 km outside Trondheim city centre. There will be a gathering to meet and greet on the Wednesday evening.

To get to the city centre take the airport buss going to Trondheim S, leaving every 15 minutes until 21.35 or get on the local train going from Værnes to Trondheim S, last train leaves at 22.54 (http://www.nsb.no/?lang=en_US). A third option is taxi, but if by far more expensive.

Book a one night stay in Trondheim. Go to Hotels.com and type in Trondheim, Norway. Then go to Landmarks, tick of City Centre and adjust the search to within 2-5 miles. We recommend City Living Schøller, and for a cheaper option; the Jarlen pension (<http://www.jarlen.no/en/home>) located nearby. A bus will drive us to Sletvik field station the next day and back to the airport on the day of departure.
